PERSONAL BIO

Amar M. Andrade is like a seed, wherever they are planted they will grow. They come from the breeze of an island that holds more than its memories, and an echo of the Borinquen people whose voices echo beyond its history. Then, to a city full of challenges and lessons, which is only the beginning to a journey that would soon build the fighter that they are today.

Their journey began in 2022 in the city of Jacksonville, Florida where they attended Florida State College at Jacksonville for Digital Multimedia Production and Graphic Design Technical Certification, graduating with an Associate of Arts Degree. Amar, of many things, is also a poet — using his passion for storytelling to share with the community through many different artistic events that he also coordinated.

Performing their art started in college where their first body of work was published — titled, “La Sangre Que Llevo Dentro Que Pinta Los Colores De Mi Ser” — in their college magazine called, “The Experience Magazine,” in which they were also a Coordination Director and Magazine Editor. Amar also gained experience in leading creative direction for marketing and photography in the productions Beetlejuice at Players by the Sea Theatre and Callas at the Jacksonville Arts and Music School Black Box Theatre.

As Amar continues to pursue their artistic career, they strive to continue their education in becoming a well-verse and innovative Creative Director, Director of Photography, and Screenwriter.

A foundation that is built from my story.
